Contact Us

Please contact us for questions, an evaluation, and participation in research.

Phone: (323) 442-7600
Fax: (323) 442-7601
Email: gsc@usc.edu
Website: www.usc.edu/adrc

Giving

Donations and gifts are invaluable to our work, and allow us to sustain and extend our research efforts.

For donations please write, email, or call:

USC, Memory and Aging Center
1510 San Pablo Street, 643 MC - 9206
Los Angeles, CA 90033-5300
Email: gsc@usc.edu
Who We Are

The Memory and Aging Center at USC includes the memory clinic, the National Institutes of Health Alzheimer Disease Research Center, and two State of California Alzheimer Disease Centers.

The memory clinic provides medical, diagnostic and treatment services.

The research center provides participants with access to leading-edge studies of new medications and treatments that advance our knowledge of memory problems associated with aging.

Over the past 30 years USC physicians and researchers have made major contributions to our knowledge of Alzheimer disease, vascular brain injury, and memory problems.

Our staff includes neurologists, psychiatrists, psychologists, physician assistants, nurses, and social workers who collaborate with basic scientists on diagnosis, treatment and research.

Who can receive evaluations?
People who are concerned about their memory or who are seeking medical assistance, diagnoses or consultation may contact a staff person to make an appointment at (323) 442-7600.

Who is eligible to participate in research?
We encourage people to volunteer for research:
• Individuals concerned about their memory
• Adults 55 years or older with or without memory problems who wish to participate
• Individuals with high blood pressure, high cholesterol, diabetes, or heart disease with or without memory problems
• Persons diagnosed with Alzheimer disease or another memory disorder

Depending on the study, participants may receive medical or neurological examinations, memory testing, behavior assessment, brain imaging, or other treatments at no cost.

Our Staff