Problems without Passports (PwP)

History 499: Peacebuilding in Colombia

This 4-unit course will explore the history of armed conflict, peace processes and the challenges of peacebuilding in Colombia.

Possible major/minor credit in History; Law, History & Culture; Contemporary Latino/Latin American Studies; International Relations; NGOs & Social Change; and Political Science

Instructor: Prof. Edgardo Pérez Morales
Dates: June 11-29, 2018 (pending confirmation)
Location: on the campus of the Universidad de los Andes in Bogotá
Cost: 4 units of USC tuition ($7,200) + airfare ($800) + hotel accommodation and co-curricular program ($1,200) + estimated personal expenses $600 = $9,600. Students may find ways to spend less on airfare and personal expenses. Trustee and Presidential Scholars can apply for Exceptional Funding. Dornsife majors can apply for SURF funding (up to $3,000).

Spanish language ability helpful but not required.

Week 1: History of the Colombian Armed Conflict – from the 1960’s to Today
Week 2: Peace Negotiations in Colombia
Week 3: Building a Lasting Resolution
Mornings: class on the Universidad de los Andes (Uniandes) campus
Afternoons: practical visits and sociocultural activities
- Visits to cultural, governmental and educational organizations such as:
  - Colombian Congress
  - UN Development Program
  - International Center for Transitional Justice
  - Repatriation of Victims Unit
Trip to demilitarised zone at Icononzo (a UN-led de-armament camp)
Optional weekend trip to Salento coffee-growing region ($240 extra)

For more information: Visit http://www.redtreestudy.com/uniandes/
For application: Email info@redtreestudy.com to enquire about the next steps. Rolling admission; space in the program fills quickly. Two-step application process: Step 1 – Complete Red Tree Study application; Step 2 – Successful applicants continue to USC Dornsife application process. Questions: email overseas@usc.edu

This program is pending curriculum committee re-approval. The course may be cancelled if there is insufficient enrollment.