University of Southern California
Non-Tenure-Track Lecturer Positions, East Asian Languages and Cultures

The Department of East Asian Languages and Cultures in the Dana and David Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles, California, may have one or more full-time or part-time openings for non-tenure-track lecturer positions in the Chinese, Korean, or Japanese languages for the 2014-2015 academic year.

The department provides students with a well-rounded education on East Asia by focusing on the study of the languages, literatures, and cultures of China, Japan and Korea at both the graduate (Ph.D.) and undergraduate (B.A.) level.

Applicants should have an M.A. or Ph.D. in language pedagogy, second language acquisition, linguistics, or related fields, and possess native or near-native fluency in both their language of instruction and English. Evidence of commitment to dynamic and effective language teaching is essential. Salary and benefits are competitive.

To apply please submit an application letter, curriculum vitae, a cover letter that includes a statement of teaching interests, recent teaching evaluations (other document), and three recommendation letters, at least two of which speaks to teaching abilities. In order to be considered for this position, applicants are also required to submit an electronic USC application; follow this job link or paste in a browser: http://jobs.usc.edu/postings/19383

A sample teaching video that demonstrates teaching at two levels may also be requested at a later date. Review of complete applications will begin March 15, 2014. Questions can be addressed to ealcsearch@dornsife.usc.edu

USC strongly values diversity and is committed to equal opportunity in employment. Women and men, and members of all racial and ethnic groups, are encouraged to apply.
