Upcoming Event: Buddhist Statecraft in East Asia

Buddhist Statecraft in East Asia: A Conference of Storytellers will bring together twenty-five scholars from Canada, the US, China, Korea, Taiwan, Japan and Vietnam in order to engage in an interdisciplinary and comparative study of Buddhist statecraft. Through the medium of storytelling, the paper presenters will explore how Buddhism has been an important means of securing imperial legitimation and political power, as well as an effective partner in the running of a state, since its arrival in China in the third century of the Common Era and subsequent spread to the rest of East Asia.

This conference is co-sponsored by East Asian Studies Center, School of Religion, Center for International Studies, Korean Studies Institute, USC Office of the Provost, American Council of Learned

Event Reminder: Interdisciplinary Symposium on East Asian Business - Digital East Asia

USC East Asian Studies Center will host a new symposium series on the interdisciplinary study of East Asian business. Fundamental to the approach of the symposium is a belief that truly innovative ideas about the study of complex phenomena come best through interdisciplinary interchange. Our first symposium will address the question of Digital East Asia focusing on "Emerging Trends in Public Policy and Regulation."

This event is co-sponsored by the Center for International Studies at USC Dornsife, Center on Public Diplomacy at USC Annenberg and International Initiatives at USC Sol Price School of Public Policy.

Friday | February 10 | 10:00 AM - 4:00 PM | SOS B40 | RSVP | Flyer
