Red Love & Betrayal in the Making of North Korea: Comrade Hồ Jông-Suk

Presented by Ruth Barraclough, Australian National University

Tuesday October 22
Ahn House | 3-4:30 PM

Open to the public but must read paper beforehand. Please RSVP to ksi@dornsife.usc.edu to obtain a copy of the paper.

Dr. Ruth Barraclough is a senior lecturer in the School of Culture, History and Language at Australian National University. She is the author of Factory Girl Literature: Sexuality, Violence, and Representation in Industrializing Korea.

Barraclough will present her paper entitled "Red Love and Betrayal in the Making of North Korea: Comrade Hồ Jông-suk." This talk looks at the life of one the most famous communist feminists of modern Korea, Hồ Jông-suk. Hồ Jông-suk’s political career and personal life span an extraordinary slice of modern Korean history.