

Author Series

Affirmative Advocacy:

Race, Class, and Gender
in Interest Group Politics

Dara Z. Strolovitch

April 10

11:45 a.m. - 1:00 p.m.

University Club Pub Room, free lunch

Dara Z. Strolovitch is Assistant Professor of Political Science at the University of Minnesota. Her work focuses on interest groups and social movements, and on the politics of race, class, gender, and sexuality in the United States. She has held fellowships at the Brookings Institution, Georgetown's Center for Democracy and Civil Society, and the University of Minnesota's Institute for Advanced Study. Her writing has appeared in the Journal of Politics, the American Journal of Sociology, the National Women's Studies Association Journal, Social Science Quarterly, the Du Bois Review, and Interest Group Politics (7e). She earned her Ph.D. from Yale University in 2002.

RSVP is required. Please email unruhins@usc.edu or call 213.740.8964.