¡VIVA LA CÁMARA!

Photographs of the Mexican Revolution from the Gustavo Casasola Foundation

Please join us for a discussion about the crucial role photography played in the 1910–1920 Mexican Revolution, followed by the opening reception for an exhibition in Doheny Library, drawn from the Gustavo Casasola Foundation in Mexico and the USC Libraries Boeckmann Center Collection. Photojournalist Gustavo Casasola, UCLA professor Maarten Van Delden, and USC professor Liana Stepanyan will explore the causes of the decade-long upheaval, the local photographers—including many members of the Casasola family—who followed the unfolding events, and how the revolution continues to shape the country’s identity. The exhibition will be on view through December 16, 2015.

OPENING RECEPTION
Wednesday, September 16, 2015

TIME
Panel discussion: 4:00 p.m.
Exhibition reception: 5:00 p.m.

LOCATION
Doheny Memorial Library
Panel: Friends Lecture Hall (room 240)
Reception: Ground Floor Rotunda

RSVP
Please RSVP to camara.eventbrite.com

PARKING
Enter campus through Gate 3 at USC McCarthy Way, between Jefferson and Exposition on Figueroa Street