“State Formation in the Center and Eastern Periphery of Kofun Period Japan”

A series of talks by

Prof. Ken’ichi Sasaki

of

Meiji University, Department of Archaeology

Monday, April 20, 2015, 4 - 6 pm
Waite Phillips Hall (WPH) 204

Talk 1: Japanese theories of state formation
Talk 2: Appearance of keyhole-shaped tumuli in the middle and late third century

Tuesday, April 21, 2015, 4:30 - 6:30 pm
East Asian Seminar Room (Doheney Library110C)

Talk 1: Distribution of iron armor in the fifth century and its political significance
Talk 2: Corridor-style burial chambers and clustered tumuli in the sixth century

Sponsored by: The Project for Premodern Japan Studies, USC History Department
(213) 740 - 1657