• USC Academic Recognition Programs, International Fellowships
http://www.usc.edu/student-affairs/arp/fellowships

Large list of opportunities under “Fellowship” tab on website.

Competitive international and national fellowships can be an incredible way to enhance your knowledge in your area of study, while also giving you a competitive edge on any graduate programs you may apply to in the future. Fellowships are available to support research, study at a foreign university, or take part in an internship abroad.

Fellowships can be for graduate and/or undergraduate students, and vary by location, length, and field of study. Although there are numerous academic fellowships available, those described on the website are among the most recognized and substantial awards.

It is never too early to begin thinking about applying for a fellowship! Our office offers advisement and workshops on applying, interviewing, and writing personal statements to help prepare students for the application process.

SOAR: Sophomore Opportunities for Undergraduate Research

http://www.usc.edu/dept/LAS/general_studies/inds/soar/eligibility.html

SOAR provides $1,000 of support to any non-course related research activity involving an eligible student and a faculty sponsor. The funds may either be used to:

(a) involve the student as a research assistant in the faculty member’s project
(b) cover costs incurred by a student in the course of researching her or his own project

SOAR allows all students the opportunity to be mentored one-on-one by our faculty, and to introduce students early in their College careers to the process of serious scholarly inquiry.

Eligibility
Each student in USC College is eligible for only one SOAR award. To become a SOAR scholar, an undergraduate must have:

- a major in USC College which includes Undeclared and Undecided majors
- completed between 32 and 63 units of study
- a GPA of 3.3 or higher
• Summer Undergraduate Research Funds (SURF)

Any student in good standing and enrolled in the College may apply for a research stipend of up to $3,000 to support a summer research project. This stipend may be used to pay for travel, equipment, living expenses or fees related to the research effort. Students participating in one of the College’s “Problems Without Passports” research courses may use these funds for tuition.

Students participating in the following types of programs may apply:
- Assisting a USC professor with a research project
- Participating in a team research activity under the supervision of a USC professor
- Research for a departmental honors program
- Research with a lab, consulting firm or an internship that involves an independent research project

There may be other research projects that we will consider for funding. Students are encouraged to apply and the selection committee will determine whether the proposal project is eligible for funding. No one receiving wages for a project will be considered.

Applications must include the following:
- A brief description of the project-500 word maximum
- A STARS report
- A letter of recommendation from the professor supervising the project
- A budget for the project that includes information about other funding sources

All materials must be submitted to the Vice Dean of Undergraduate Programs in ADM 304. Application due date is the end of April.

All funds will be disbursed in accordance with customary policies and procedures of the university.

Psyc related internships/jobs

- Entertainment Industries Council Internships

About the Internship

The EIC Internship is for undergraduate and graduate psychology, psychiatry or communications students.

This internship will contribute to the student’s program of study and provide a unique, meaningful experience tied to the annual PRISM Awards program to encourage the accurate depiction of health and social issues in television and film.

The PRISM Awards are presented each year as positive reinforcement for entertainment productions that accurately address substance abuse, addiction, mental health, mental illness, treatment and recovery.

What the Internship Provides

In coordination with surrounding universities and colleges, EIC will provide an unpaid fall/winter internship with semester credit and reimbursements for local travel expenses, if applicable. Students are expected to research, write, and use analytical skills to carry out specific assignments related EIC’s annual PRISM Awards program. Interns are responsible for housing and other expenses during the internship.

How to Apply

To apply, send the following materials to the program coordinator:

· Detailed letter describing your reasons for applying - please include information about previous internships or work experience, describe any relevant experience and/or college course work, give details of expected graduation date and degree, and a contact mail or e-mail address.
· Resume
· List of references (3)

The Scoville Fellowship

For students interested in national peace and security issues:

The Herbert Scoville Jr. Peace Fellowship is a program that provides college graduates the opportunity to work in Washington, DC with a public-interest organization focusing on arms control and international security issues.

The fellowship is offered twice yearly, in the spring and fall. It lasts from six to nine months and provides a stipend, health insurance, and travel costs to Washington. The Scoville Fellowship does not award grant or scholarship money to students.

Scoville Fellows may undertake a variety of activities, including research, writing, and advocacy in support of the goals of their host organization and may attend coalition meetings, policy briefings, and Congressional hearings. They have written fact sheets, letters to the editor, op eds, magazine articles, briefing books and reports, organized talks and conferences, and been interviewed as experts by the media. Many former Scoville Fellows work for NGOs or the Federal Government, or attend graduate school in political science or international relations, following their fellowships.

• TEACH FOR AMERICA

Today in our country, nine-year-olds growing up in low-income communities are already three grade levels behind their peers in high-income communities. Half of them won't graduate from high school. Those who do graduate will, on average, read and do math at the level of eighth graders in high-income communities.

This is our nation's most pressing problem. It is our responsibility to make sure there is equal educational opportunity for all...

USC Sea Grant
USC Sea Grant in conjunction with the Provost Office and the Wrigley Institute for Environmental Studies host three summer science programs at the USC Wrigley Marine Science Center on Catalina Island. One program is for middle school boys and the other two are for young women. We are looking for counselors for these programs. Although we cannot offer any salary, we do cover all expenses to and from USC to the island and room and board.

Counselors need to be able to attend a counselor preparation weekend at the Wrigley Marine Science Center on Catalina in April. At that time you will have a chance to become familiar with the site, snorkeling gear, kayaks, meet the instructors, and get a more in-depth overview of the program.

Autism Spectrum Therapies

http://www.autismtherapies.com/staff.htm
moreinfo@autismtherapies.com

Autism Spectrum Therapies (AST) a nonpublic agency, employs the latest Applied Behavior Analytic finding in crafting personalized programs that address the various need of children, their families, schools, and communities.

All AST interventions are directly rooted in the principles of applied behavioral analysis (ABA). We strongly believe in the use of discrete trial methodologies and the use of empirically validated play-based ABA strategies. Our programs address quick acquisition of language and social skills, and the reduction of prompt dependency as those skills are extended into play routines and natural family routines. Our ABA technologies include functional approaches to challenging behaviors, the use of visual supports, and structured routines to build positive responding. Since each child's needs are unique, we tailor our ABA goals and methods accordingly.

- University of Oregon Clinical Internship for Ethnic Minority Students
  http://darkwing.uoregon.edu/~gnhall/summer/index.html

The University of Oregon Summer Research Training Program in Clinical Psychology is a 6-week mentorship/internship that provides ethnic minority undergraduate students with training under the guidance of a faculty member.

The purpose of the program is to prepare students for graduate study in clinical psychology. In addition to learning about research with individual faculty mentors, students participate in a clinical research methods course and attend research presentations by other program faculty.

Students write a paper on their research area and make presentations in a joint symposium at the end of the program. Participating students receive a tuition waiver, free on-campus room and board, a research stipend and 4 academic credits from the University of Oregon. Social activities including field trips will also be part of the experience.

- Summer camp for special needs kids
  Ramapo for Children

Overview of Job Opportunities

Ramapo is one of the few residential summer camps serving children with social, emotional, and learning problems.

During each of three summer sessions, 200 campers participate in creative projects, sports, and outdoor experiences. Campers swim, canoe, climb mountains, and camp out. They improve learning skills in the Reading Center and Discovery Center. Creative talents are nurtured in Arts, Crafts, and other enrichment activities. Counselors organize and help campers participate in these programs.

No previous experience in this type of work or special course is necessary for counselor employment.

Dates: June - August

Students will learn:
- to apply theory and practice to solve problems in a therapeutic milieu.
- to live and work with children who are troubled.
- to acquire skills and knowledge unobtainable in a classroom experience.

Length: Minimum of 400 hours of supervised field experience (9 weeks) in a residential summer program for children with special needs; in addition, 50 hours (6 days) of initial classroom orientation, lectures, and workshops, 9 one-hour weekly seminars with course instructors, and 9 one-hour weekly consultations with course instructors in the field.

Instruction: Students work directly with children on learning-centered activities for a minimum of five hours each day and spend a minimum of one hour daily in preparation. Initial camp counselor training is an intensive six-day experience that helps prepare staff to work with children with emotional, learning, and behavior problems in a dynamic, outdoor environment.

3rd Annual Summer Tuition-Based Internships and Visiting Fellowships in Applied Sport Psychology (Evidence-Based Athlete Assessment and Intervention)

Undergraduates are eligible for the Intern-Research Assistant positions. Graduates, graduate students, coaches and faculty/administrators are eligible for the Fellowships.

Selected individuals will be exposed to applied research and evidence-based approaches to athlete assessment and intervention and the opportunity to work (under supervision of Dr. Roland A. Carlstedt) with athletes from various sports and organizations.

Venue: New York City (activities throughout greater New York City area)

Dates: Starting in May and running through September (Summer long positions are available). One-Month minimum participation required (latest start time: August).

Hours per week- minimum of 20 hours of applied sport psychology activities per week

Activities:

- Orientation/Overview of ABSP Evidence-based athlete assessment and intervention protocol (see ABSP website; link to Journal and Test Center pages)
- Applied sport psychology/applied neuroscience and psychophysiology lab
- Experiencing the ABSP Protocol first hand (taking the ABSP-BRC Internet-based test battery)
- Analysis of your test results
- In-the-field athlete assessment and intervention
- Data-analysis
- Applied Interventions/Supervising Athlete intervention
- Participation in on-going research projects (longitudinal data acquisition, assessment and intervention on-going investigation).
- Numerous other learning and training activities including lectures on components of the ABSP Evidence-Based Protocol
- Ethical practice and marketing of sport psychology services
- Working with Coaches

The Youth and Family Program

The Youth and Family Program at AADAP, located at 3210 W. Jefferson Blvd. in Los Angeles, has a serious need for student volunteer tutors.

The volunteers would tutor middle school aged children in Math, Science, History, and English. This service would be provided at the Youth and Family Program office, not far from the USC campus.

These services are needed on Monday's and Wednesday's from 3:30pm to 5:00pm. Also Tuesday and Thursday opportunities are still open for the same times. The middle school students are members of the LA Bridges Program, which is funded by the City of Los Angeles to serve at risk youth, ages 11 to 15.

For students interested in providing service to their community, please contact: Reginald Quinn at (323) 766-5541, or at rdquinn1@yahoo.com.

- The Asian Pacific American Dispute Resolution Center

  www.apadrc.org

  The Asian Pacific American Dispute Resolution Center (APADRC) is looking for volunteers who would like to be Conflict Resolution Specialists (CRS).

  The internship starts late August and ends in December.

  The APADRC provides mediation and conflict resolution services to the diverse communities in the Los Angeles area. We strive to improve human relations and race relations by addressing complex, cross-cultural community conflicts and their root causes.
in collaboration with community partners through education, training, and development of new models and techniques.

All CRS will take part in a mandatory training in conflict resolution skills before officially starting their internship and working on cases. The training is free for APADRC volunteers and interns.

Some of the work duties include: conducting in-take calls, performing casework, interacting with clients, and assisting day to day activities at the Center. Being a CRS involves a minimum requirement of 12-15 hours per week, usually split in three day increments of five hours each for a total of 16 weeks. There are optional outreach events that you can also participate in to include in your weekly hours.

Applications are due mid-August.

Undergraduate Research Opportunities & Internships

Columbia University/Barnard College Amgen Scholars' Summer Research Program
http://www.columbia.edu/cu/biology/ug/amgen/

Columbia University and Barnard College offer a summer research program to undergraduate students who will benefit from the opportunity of hands-on laboratory research. This is a chance to experience the joys of discovering something completely new while learning to overcome the challenges inherent in scientific research. Students work at Columbia University (either at the Morningside Heights campus or at the Medical Center campus) or Barnard College.

University of Maryland College of Behavioral and Social Sciences
Summer Research Initiative to Increase Diversity
http://www.bsos.umd.edu/dean/summer.html

The Summer Research Initiative (SRI) has a special emphasis on population groups underrepresented in the behavioral, social and economic science fields (i.e., African Americans, Hispanics, American Indians, Alaska Natives, Native Hawaiians or other Pacific Islanders). The goals of the initiative are to:

- Increase the knowledge of, and interest in, doctoral-level training in the social, behavioral, and economic sciences;
• Provide rising juniors and seniors an opportunity to learn about graduate studies and the range of research and scholarship in the social, behavioral, and economic sciences at the University of Maryland College Park;
• Provide a laboratory experience that enhances basic research knowledge and skills;
• Provide lectures, workshops, didactic exchanges, etc., to enhance students’ knowledge of the graduate application process, negotiating the academic rigors and professional and personal challenges encountered in graduate school, and developing career paths in social, behavioral, and economic science; and
• Provide mentoring and networking opportunities for students to advance their training in the social, behavior, and economic sciences.

APA Summer Science Fellowship Program

www.apa.org/science/ssf.html

The APA Science Directorate is pleased to announce a new program—the Summer Science Fellowships (SSF). An offshoot of the successful Summer Science Institute, SSF aims to immerse advanced undergraduate students in the science of psychology by exposing them to the excitement and promise of the best of psychological science.

An expenses-paid, intensive summer training program, the purpose of SSF is to allow 12 talented students to be placed in the psychology laboratories of some of the most outstanding researchers in the Washington, DC area for up to 6 weeks. The SSF program gives students an opportunity to explore the intellectual, personal, and social processes of scientific inquiry and to experience cutting-edge psychological research through hands-on laboratory activities. SSF offers promising students the opportunity to equip themselves with skills essential to succeed in graduate school, and gives students who plan to pursue advanced degrees in psychological science the opportunity to be mentored by nationally-known faculty.

The program is expected to run from late June to early August.

APA will pay students a summer salary, as well as cover all travel and living expenses. This should make the program financially feasible for most college students.

Visit www.apa.org/science/ssf.html for complete details about the program and online application.

University of Utah Summer Research Opportunity Program

http://www.psych.utah.edu/srop/gen descrip.php

Every summer, SROP-Psychology accepts both undergraduate and pre-masters level graduate students into an 8 to 10-week internship that provides valuable research and professional development experience under the guidance of faculty in the Department of Psychology. The program is designed to strengthen the skills needed to get into and successfully complete a doctorate program in psychology or related fields. In addition to receiving excellent research training and graduate school preparation/support, students have opportunities to participate in social activities with other interns, faculty & graduate students, to take advantage of Salt Lake City’s cultural activities (music, festivals, theatre), and to explore the surrounding mountains, deserts, and world famous National Parks.

SROP includes the following components:
- Research Training
- Professional Development Support
- GRE Preparation
- Presentations & Travel Awards
- Benefits (room and board, travel expenses, summer stipend $3,000-$4,000, 6 hours of academic credit from the University of Utah)
- Coordination with campus-wide SROP (through seminars, field trips, and social activities)

Program Description

This Research Experiences for Undergraduates (REU) program has been funded by the National Science Foundation (NSF) to provide 12 undergraduate interns with an 8-week (June-July) summer research experience in lifespan developmental psychology.

Individuals accepted into the REU program will participate in three types of activities:

- Research Project - Interns will conduct a research project in collaboration with a faculty mentor. This experience will culminate in the presentation of the research at a conference.
- Seminars and Workshops - Interns will attend workshops and special topics seminars that are designed to help them gain the technical knowledge and skills needed to successfully complete their research projects.
- Group Activities - Interns will interact with other REU interns, with current graduate students in psychology, and with all of the faculty mentors at REU group meetings and at planned social events and outings.

REU interns will receive a salary ($2400), lodging, and meals.

  http://www.irsp.ucla.edu/

The Interdisciplinary Relationship Science Program (IRSP) at UCLA has paid summer research internships for undergraduate students.

UCLA will sponsor undergraduate students who would like to work on a research project concerning social relationships with an IRSP faculty member at UCLA. In coordination with the UCLA SPUR program, we will provide a stipend and on-campus housing. Students are expected to work full-time for 8 weeks, and also have the opportunity to attend career development programs and social activities. The dates for the summer 2008 program will be June 22-August 16, 2008.

About the UCLA Summer Programs for Undergraduate Research (SPUR)

The objective of the SPUR program is to help prepare, motivate, encourage, and support students who aspire to obtain a PhD and pursue an academic career in teaching and research. This program offers upper division undergraduate students with outstanding academic potential the opportunity to work closely with faculty mentors on research projects.

Each student participant works with a faculty mentor. Students either assist the faculty member in an ongoing research project or work collaboratively with the mentor to design a new project of mutual interest.

A long-term goal of the SPUR program is to help broaden and expand the pool of academically talented young scholars committed to careers in university teaching and research.

The SPUR program features:

* regular seminars on academic career opportunities
* GRE test preparation
* writing and research skills development
* strategies for enhancing success in applying to graduate school
* graduate school funding opportunities
* opportunities for informal discussion with UCLA graduate students
* cultural and educational activities

Students accepted by the SPUR program and supported by IRSP will receive a stipend of $2500, as well as a room and a meal allowance. All participants are required to reside in assigned University housing. Students will be provided with up to $450 for round-trip travel from home to UCLA. Students traveling within California but outside of the Los Angeles area will be provided with a maximum of $200 for travel expenses.

• The Public Policy & International Affairs (PPIA) Fellowship Program at the University of California, Berkeley

Program Information
The Public Policy and International Affairs (PPIA) Junior Summer Institute is an intensive seven week academic training program for college juniors. The summer institute prepares undergraduate students for graduate studies in public policy, law and/or international affairs. Participants complete course work in economics, statistics, and policy analysis; and visit local, state and federal government agencies and non profit organizations.
Each year we select thirty students to participate in the program from across the country. This summer, 10 slots will again be allocated to students interested in pursuing joint degrees in law and public policy. In addition to learning the fundamentals of policy analysis, UCPIPA Law Fellows will be exposed to the skills necessary to gain entry to and succeed at a top law school.

This program is launched in conjunction with UC Berkeley School of Law.

Benefits
Students selected to participate receive:
* Assistance with travel expenses to and from the Summer Institute
* $1000 Stipend
* Free room and board
* Free books and materials
* Free GRE and LSAT course
* A minimum $5000 fellowship from a consortium graduate school where the PPIA fellow is accepted
* Be eligible for paid internships and other professional development opportunities

• The Summer Training on Aging Research Topics - Mental Health at UC San Diego http://startmh.ucsd.edu

The Summer Training on Aging Research Topics - Mental Health (START-MH) Program is a unique national program that offers competitive scholarships to undergraduate, graduate and medical students who may be interested in aging and mental health research.

The program gives the selected fellows an opportunity to gain research experience and work closely with an established mentor/investigator in the field of aging and mental health research. During the 10-week summer program, students will work on specific projects developed by, or in conjunction with a mentor. The training is designed for students at all research levels. Training may occur in a variety of institutions all across the country.

Undergraduate students will be awarded a stipend of $5,000 for the summer program dependent on the number of weeks worked. From this stipend, fellows are responsible for their own meals, housing and travel expenses.

The program activities are rigorous and require a full time commitment (five days a week/40 hours per week). Students can not work or take summer courses during the program.

At the end of the program, fellows are expected to provide a report of their summer activities including an abstract on their research. All fellows will be required to attend a START-MH Conference at UCSD in August (travel expenses paid) to present their research experience and plans for future research careers.

Visit the website at: http://startmh.ucsd.edu for program details and application forms.

Risk and Prevention in Education Sciences Summer Undergraduate Research Program
8-week internship

This internship program is designed to encourage students from groups traditionally underrepresented in the field of education research to consider careers in academic, policy, or research organizations. Interns will work on research focusing on risk and prevention issues involving schools and children from pre-K to 12th grade. Interns will also participate in meetings and workshops, attend the Head Start Conference, and present their research at the Leadership Alliance National Symposium.

Research Apprenticeships
Interns will work on an ongoing research project(s) with one of the RPES faculty mentors and an RPES graduate student co-mentor. Internship work may include:
  - reading background literature
  - collecting, coding, and analyzing data
  - writing a section of a paper
  - participating in research meetings
  - presenting on research

Pittsburgh Science of Learning Center Carnegie Mellon

The Pittsburgh Science of Learning Center (PSLC) at Carnegie Mellon and the University of Pittsburgh has an exciting summer research opportunity available to undergraduate students. This program encourages applications from students who would like to do research in the fields of psychology, education, computer science, human-computer interfaces and language technologies.

The PSLC's program provides support for talented undergraduates to spend 8 or 10 weeks during the summer working in a research laboratory at Carnegie Mellon University or the University of Pittsburgh.

The program aims to encourage the participation of underrepresented students in our graduate programs and to make the PSLC's programs more visible to students not traditionally exposed to our fields. The program supports the PSLC's commitment to training a diverse set of science, technology, education, and psychology leaders. Applications will be considered from eligible students without regard to gender, race, or ethnicity.

Summer Research Internship Program Stockbridge, MA

This year the Erik H. Erikson Institute of the Austen Riggs Center in Stockbridge, MA is offering an opportunity for undergraduate students to take part in our Summer Research Internship Program. The focus of the internship is on research related to psychodynamic constructs. The start/end dates for the position are negotiable to accommodate the applicant’s scholastic schedule. The internship is approximately a 2-month time commitment. Students should plan to live in the area or commute a short distance during the internship.

Anticipated benefits to the Summer Intern include: 1) Exposure to a rich and unique source of clinical data with real world applications, 2) Gaining valuable research skills by joining research labs and joining staff member(s) in projects, 3) Learning about the clinical operation as it relates to clinical research.

The internship requires a minimum commitment of 160 hours (20 hour work week for no less than an 8 week rotation; some hours could extend into the academic year if approved). The intern will report to Dr. Clemence as the Clinical Research Associate for the program, but will also be assigned a mentor to facilitate his or her orientation and involvement in the program. The intern can chose to work in several recently formed research labs at once and is not required to commit to a single study. The research labs are as follows: Suicidal and Self-Destructive Behavior Lab (Drs. Tillman and Fowler); Psychodynamic Psychopharmacology Lab (Drs. Mintz and Habl); Psychosis Lab (Drs. Charles and Clemence); Family Systems Lab (Cathleen Morey, LCSW and Cynthia Mulder, LCSW); and Treatment Efficacy and Treatment Resistance Lab (Drs. Fowler and Clemence).

Intern(s) duties and responsibilities may include literature searches and writing, developing a study methodology, gaining competency in rating archival data sources, data entry and analysis, and synthesis of results. Interns may be asked to present findings In-House and/or at national/international professional meetings that encourage student involvement. Because this is envisioned as a research internship, the interface with the patient community and clinical operations will be minimal (to preserve confidentiality of the current patient population) unless directly involving research duties.

If you know of students who are motivated to gain experience in psychodynamic research, please forward this e-mail to them and encourage them to contact our Director of Human Resource, Bertha Connelley at 413-931-5206.

• UCLA Law Fellows Program for undergraduates/recent graduates interested in law school
Law Fellows Program, provided by the Academic Outreach Resource Center at the UCLA School of Law
Application due mid November, program activities start in January

Law Fellows Program

The Program focuses on students’ academic development, with the objective of increasing the participants’ academic competitiveness for admission to law school. Law Fellows are strongly encouraged to participate in outreach activities aimed at serving the various community segments of Southern California.

Law Fellows attend a series of Saturday Academies held at UCLA School of Law in the winter and spring, where they are provided with mentoring, academic enrichment, and career development activities designed to demystify law school and the legal profession, and also present these objectives as viable options.

Advanced Statistical Training in Psychology (ASTP)—A unique summer program from The APA Science Directorate...

University of Maryland
July 12-20

APA holds an advanced seminar in statistics for undergraduates who plan to pursue advanced degrees in psychological research. The Advanced Statistical Training in Psychology (ASTP) program, will be an intensive, 9-day hands-on seminar in which students learn about psychological statistics and research methods in a dynamic setting that emphasizes the hands-on skills it takes to analyze and interpret real data. Much of the statistical instruction will be geared toward the use of computer-assisted statistical packages (SPSS).

ASTP will target students from traditionally underrepresented groups in psychology. The definition of underrepresented groups for this program is broad.

ASTP will focus primarily on statistics and research methods. However, the program will also include a substantial professional socialization component, in which students will learn about important topics such as maximizing one's chances of being admitted to graduate school and maximizing one's chances of being happy and successful once admitted.
Participants will pay a $200 registration fee and provide for their own travel. APA will cover the cost of room, board, lectures, and labs. Financial need should not be a barrier to anyone's participation. For those with financial need, scholarship support is available for travel as well as for the registration fee. Eligibility is limited to college students who will be seniors during the 2008-2009 academic year, who have firm plans to attend a graduate program in psychology after college, and who plan to pursue careers in research.

Visit www.apa.org/science/astp.html for more information and application instructions.

Non Psychology Related Internships

Arts Internship Program
http://www.lacountyarts.org/internship.html

The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors established the Arts Internship Program (which provides internships for nonprofit performing, presenting, literary, and municipal arts organizations) as a companion program to the Getty Multicultural Internship Program (which provides internships to museums and visual arts organizations).
The purpose of the County's program is to provide undergraduate students with meaningful on-the-job training and experience in working in nonprofit arts organizations, while assisting arts organizations to develop future arts leaders. Through this program, students can develop a deeper understanding of the work involved in nonprofit arts administration, better understand the role of the arts in a community, and develop "real life" business skills that can be put to use in their future careers.

During the ten-week course of the summer internships, participating organizations gain the assistance of extra staff to help with special or seasonal projects. Participating organizations also play an important role in molding and shaping potential new workers in the arts field who may go on to arts leadership positions on staffs or boards.

Students interested in internships apply directly to the host organization. Available internships will be posted on the Commission web site by mid-March of the program year (including specific application instructions for each internship). Early application is suggested. Applications may not be accepted after mid-May.

The National Council for Science and the Environment

The National Council for Science and the Environment (NCSE) offers internships for students and recent graduates during the summer and the academic year. All interns will gain a diverse experience during their tenure at NCSE, primarily engaging in a variety of substantive activities, while also contributing to general office tasks. Interns will find many opportunities to attend briefings, seminars and conferences, as well as to make important contacts.

Duties and Responsibilities:
Interns will have the unique opportunity to be involved in a number of programs and projects at NCSE including the University Affiliates and the Council of Environmental Deans and Directors (CEDD) (www.CEDD.org), the online Earth Portal/Encyclopedia of Earth (www.EathPortal.Net), and the annual National Conference on Science, Policy and the Environment (www.NCSEonline.org/conference). We are also particularly interested in strong candidates interested in working on fundraising and development issues. Additionally, interns may work a limited amount on web and database management. Interns are encouraged to attend events and meetings in DC and on Capitol Hill.

Rewards:
Hands on learning about political process, science and the environment.
Participation in significant national initiative.
Washington, DC experience.
Connections with environmental scientists and decision-makers.
Stipend ($1,300 per month).
Duration:
Internships usually last for 3 months. Extension and promotion opportunities often occur. 40 hours per week; Monday – Friday.
