FREN 300 is a creative writing workshop in which students will sharpen their writing and grammar skills in French. The course will focus on developing stylistic skills as well as close reading techniques and strategies for enriching descriptions and developing suspense.

The course is organized as a “simulation” exercise where students imagine that they are tenants in a Parisian immeuble and living in Paris. The immeuble thus becomes a type of exercise terrain in which students' journals and compositions allow them to develop the lives of their fictitious characters.

The final project, which is a collaborative work, will allow students to write a mystery novel based on the characters and events developed during the course.
