Gaël Crépieux

Gaël Crépieux is the Director of the Learning Center of the Alliance Française in Chicago. Before coming to Chicago in October 2010, Gaël lived in Japan, where he spent 11 years teaching in many different environments, including the American School in Japan, Japanese and American universities, private and official French government schools, and on NHK's radio program. Gaël holds a Master's in research in Applied Linguistics of French as a Foreign Language and he has authored several French as a foreign language textbooks for beginning learners. While he worked as a coordinating teacher at the French Institute in Tokyo, he was employed by the French Embassy as a teacher's trainer and led teachers' workshops. Recently, Gaël collaborated with the cultural services of the French Embassy and the “Délégation Générale de l’Alliance Française” to implement a university degree program in Teaching French as a Foreign Language in the United States.

« Action-oriented Methodology: Students' Tasks and Video Resources »

Please RSVP to frc@usc.edu