TransPacific Conference
“Redefining the Pacific”
April 8-9, 2011

Participant Bios

Session 3: China-Latin American Ties

Chair/Discussant: Michael Shifter, Inter-American Dialogue

Michael Shifter is president of the Inter-American Dialogue, a Washington-based policy forum on Western Hemisphere affairs. Shifter previously served as the organization’s vice president for policy, and managed the Dialogue’s programs on the Andean region and democratic governance. Since 1993 he has been adjunct professor of Latin American politics at Georgetown University’s School of Foreign Service. Before joining the Dialogue, Shifter directed the Latin American and Caribbean program at the National Endowment for Democracy and the Ford Foundation’s governance and human rights program in the Andean region and the Southern Cone. Shifter writes and comments widely on US-Latin American relations and hemispheric affairs and has frequently testified before the US Congress. He is co-editor, along with Jorge Dominguez, of Constructing Democratic Governance in Latin America (Johns Hopkins University Press). He is contributing editor to Current History and a member of the Council on Foreign Relations. Shifter graduated summa cum laude from Oberlin College and received a Masters degree in sociology from Harvard University.

Kevin Gallagher, Professor, Boston University

Dr. Kevin P. Gallagher is an associate professor of international relations at Boston University, where he directs the Global Development Policy Program. He is also senior researcher at the Global Development and Environment Institute, Tufts University. Professor Gallagher is the author of: The Dragon in the Room: China and the Future of Latin American Industrialization, with Roberto Porzecanski (Stanford University Press, 2010); The Enclave Economy: Foreign Investment and Sustainable Development in Mexico's Silicon Valley, with Lyuba Zarsky (MIT Press, 2007); Free Trade and the Environment: Mexico, NAFTA, and Beyond (Stanford University Press, 2004); and editor of Putting Development First: The Importance of Policy Space in the WTO and IFIs (Zed Books, 2005).

He has served as visiting or adjunct professor at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Tufts University; Harvard University’s Kennedy School of Government; El Colegio de Mexico in Mexico, and Tsinghua University in China. He currently serves on the investment subcommittee of the US Department of State’s of the Advisory Committee on International Economic Policy, and the US Environmental Protection Agency’s National Advisory Committee for Mexico. Professor Gallagher writes regular columns on global economic and development policy for The Guardian, Financial Times, and POLITICO.

Enrique Dussel Peters, Professor UNAM

Professor at the Graduate School of Economics, Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México (UNAM), 1993 to present. Consultant for several Mexican and international institutions. B.A. and M.A. in Political Science at the Free University of Berlin, and Ph.D. in Economics at the University of Notre Dame. Research topics: economic development, political economy, industrial organization and trade theory, NAFTA and CAFTA, evolution of industrial, trade and regional patterns in Latin America and Mexico. Coordinator of the Area of Political Economy at the Graduate School of Economics at UNAM (2004-2008) and Coordinator of the Center for Chinese-Mexican Studies at the National Autonomous University of Mexico (since 2006).

Injoo Sohn, Assistant Professor, University of Hong Kong

Injoo Sohn is an Assistant Professor in the Politics and Public Administration department at the University of Hong Kong. Prior to joining the University of Hong Kong, he was a postdoctoral fellow in the Princeton-Harvard China and the World Program (PHCWP) and visiting research fellow with the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS), Princeton University. He also taught at the George Washington University, consulted for the intergovernmental Group of 24 (G-24) and the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD), and worked for the U.S. Congress (the Subcommittee on International Terrorism and Non-Proliferation). His earlier research fellowships at the Shanghai Institute for International Studies (SIIS) and at the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences (CASS) were on Chinese foreign economic policy. He was also a commissioner of the Warwick Commission on International Financial Reform (2009). He is currently the principal investigator of a RGC-funded research project (2010-12) entitled “the Genesis and Design of China-centered Regional Institutions in the Developing World”. He received his BA from Seoul National University and Ph.D. from the George Washington University.

Carol Wise, USC

Carol Wise is Associate Professor of International Relations in the School of International Relations at USC. Prof. Wise has written widely on issues pertaining to Latin American political economy, including four edited collections that analyze exchange rate regimes, regional integration, and political responses to market reform in the region. Her work has appeared in such journals as International Organization, World Development, Journal of Democracy, New Political Economy, and Latin American Politics & Society. In 2003 she published Reinventing the State: Economic Strategy and Institutional Change in Peru (University of Michigan Press), and is currently completing a book entitled China, Latin America and the End of Neoliberalism. Most recently, Prof. Wise has held the Carleton University Fulbright Chair in North American Studies, the Haynes Foundation Faculty Fellowship, the Earhart Foundation Fellowship, the Woodrow Wilson Center’s Public Policy Scholarship, and a Senior Fulbright Specialist Grant to Peru. Prof. Wise holds a PhD in political science from Columbia University.