USC PARK CAMPUS

Lunch will be served, if attending please RSVP to Ryan Prijic at prijic@usc.edu

Nicola Terrenato specializes in first millennium BCE Italy, with particular reference to northern Etruria, early Rome and the period of the Roman conquest. He currently directs a major new excavation of the Latin city at Gabii, as well as a new investigation of the Sant’Omobono sanctuary in the river harbor of Rome, for which he received three major federal grants. Other interests include field survey methods, history of archaeology and especially the role of elites in the formation of empires in the Mediterranean. He received the Cullen Prize from Antiquity, the Hettleman Prize from UNC and the Distinguished Faculty awards from Michigan. He was a Senior Fellow at the Institute for Advanced Study, Princeton. He co-edited Italy and the West: Comparative issues in Romanization (2001); Articulating local cultures: Power and identity under the expanding Roman Republic (2007) State Formation in Greece and Rome (2011); Roman Republican Villas: Architecture, Context, and Ideology (2012).
