

A wide-angle photograph of a large, paved public square in Mexico City, likely the Zócalo. In the background, the massive, ornate facade of the Metropolitan Cathedral of Mexico City is visible, featuring two prominent domes. To the right, a tall flagpole displays the Mexican national flag. The foreground is filled with the shadows of trees and people walking across the square. A large, stylized text overlay is centered in the image.

MEXICO CITY