

2023–24 CIS Manuscript Review Grants: Call for Proposals

DEADLINE: Six months prior to a proposed workshop date

CIS will provide funding for Manuscript Review Workshops for CIS-affiliated faculty seeking feedback on monographs prior to submission for publication. The Manuscript Review Workshop is the centerpiece of the center's efforts to support all forms of research and create a culture of mentoring at USC.

Proposals should be submitted to CIS at cis@dornsife.usc.edu.

The four-hour workshop features up to three invited external reviewers who engage the author along with a small group of faculty and PhD students with the goal of collectively devising strategies for strengthening the final text.

Please refer to the center's website for further guidelines on the timing of the workshop and identification of prospective discussants. The budget covers travel, lodging and honoraria for the discussants ($500 each) as well as meals during and after the workshop.

Priority is given to first-time authors. Applicants must submit the following items:

- One-paragraph book précis
- Ideal date for the manuscript review (manuscript must be completed and distributed to discussants one month prior to the session)
- List of six possible discussants, three directly in the author's field, three in a +1 field

Please contact us at cis@dornsife.usc.edu with any questions.
