Event Wrap: EASC Taiwanese Documentary Series

The second installment of this three-part series attracted over 100 people from USC and the wider community throughout the two days of the event on the USC campus and at the USC Pacific Asia Museum. The three films screened covered topics such as water and air pollution in Taiwan and the plight of the whale shark. The screenings were followed by an engaging Q&A moderated by professors Stanley Rosen and Daniel Lynch and questions from the audience for renowned filmmaker Director Ke Chin-yuan. For details and to view the Q&A, please visit the event page. PHOTOS

Tomorrow: Transferring to Four-Year Institutions

As part of the newly established USC-PCC Partnership that is supported by the US Department of Education's Title VI NRC grant, a group of USC transfer students along with EASC Program Specialist Jier Dong will conduct a panel at the Pasadena City College on the topic of transferring to four-year institutions. The students will talk about their own experiences in transferring from a community college and provide advice and insight regarding the transferring process.

Event Reminder: Spring 2015 EASC Faculty Luncheon

The EASC Faculty Luncheon, a semesterly gathering for all EASC-affiliated faculty, is this Thursday. It serves as a chance to discuss EASC programming and activities, as well as for EASC affiliated faculty to share their and their home departments' achievements and other news within the EASC community.
