Happy Thanksgiving from EASC!

The East Asian Studies Center wishes you and your friends and family a relaxing and peaceful Thanksgiving break. We are thankful for our EASC community and we hope to see everyone soon at one of our upcoming events! Please be informed that the EASC office will be closed on Thursday, November 28 and Friday, November 29.

EVENT WRAPS

Navigating Grad (PhD) Life PHOTOS

The last Grad Professionalization Series workshop for the Fall Semester about Navigating Grad \(PhD\) Life was last Monday and it led by professors Jane Junn and Brett Sheehan. They led an important discussion on work/life balance and how to manage one's graduate career and experiences. The Grad Professionalization Series will return in the Spring Semester. You can view more photos on our EASC Facebook page.

Fall 2019 EASC Undergraduate Mixer PHOTOS

The EASC team and Director Brett Sheehan had a wonderful time seeing our EAAS seniors and meeting a few new EAAS majors at the Fall 2019 EASC Undergraduate Mixer last Wednesday evening. All of our senior undergraduates were previous Global East Asia scholars so it was great to hear about their experiences from their programs. You can view more photos from the mixer on our EASC

New Chinese Studies Databases Available

The USC Libraries recently acquired two new databases related to Chinese studies. You can find them at the Chinese Studies Research Guide, Chinese Studies Database List, and USC Libraries Database A-Z List.

- iRead eBooks 華藝電子書: Includes a growing collection of e-books published in Taiwan and Hong Kong acquired by the USC Libraries.
- Cambridge Archive Editions Online – East and Southeast Asia Collection: Includes a reprint collection of China Political Reports, 1911-1960 & 1961-1970, Hong Kong Annual Administration Reports, 1841-1941, Shanghai: Political and Economic Reports, 1842-1943, and Taiwan Political and Economic Reports, 1861-1960 from the National Archives in UK.

If you would like to learn more about them, you can contact Tang Li, Chinese Studies Librarian, at tangl@usc.edu.

72nd Japan-America Student Conference

Deadline: February 1, 2020

The 72nd Japan-America Student Conference (JASC) is now accepting applications. The conference will bring together 72 American and Japanese university students from a variety of academic disciplines to live, travel and conduct original peer-reviewed research together. The 72nd JASC will travel to Los Angeles, CA; Tucson, AZ; and Indiana from July 24-August 17, 2020. Interested students can apply here. Please visit their website for more information.
