East Asian Area Studies Graduate Alumni Reconnect Through Non-Profit Careers

Chelsea Mason (EAAS '10) and Ethan Xing (EAAS '09) worked together as classmates in the East Asian Area Studies M.A. program, but never thought they would be collaborating as colleagues. Several years after graduation, however, they reconnected professionally through non-profit careers.

As Marketing and Communications Director of the Pacific Asia Museum, Chelsea has worked with Ethan, Program Planner and Public Relations Specialist of the Chinese Culture Development Center, on a number of projects. Most recently, they collaborated on a Mid-Autumn Festival that featured a variety of performances, activities and food related to Chinese culture. >Full Article
