Taiwan in the World Brings Together West Coast Scholars of East Asia IR and Political Science

PICTURES

Over 40 faculty, students and community members attended the graduate mentoring workshop Taiwan in the World on Monday, March 3, 2014. The workshop brought together East Asia specialists from institutions along the west coast to discuss the work of international relations scholars at USC. Topics ranged from Taiwan-China relations to wider issues throughout the East Asia region.

The workshop aimed to provide mentorship to USC graduate students and to foster interaction and collaboration within the community of East Asian international relations scholars on the west coast. Representing several institutions that included Stanford, UC San Diego and UC Irvine, the discussants provided valuable feedback on the research projects of the USC presenters. The workshop concluded with a roundtable discussion on future collaborations among west coast IR scholars.
