Opportunities

Call for Applications: Global Asias Summer Institute - Involuntary Migration

Deadline: Friday, March 1

The Global Asias Summer Institute invites participants to look at involuntary migration and its role in the making of Global Asias. They welcome scholars using a spectrum of temporal approaches, including working with historical perspectives, engaging these issues from the vantage point of the present, and exploring Asian futurities where the work invites us to look backward to look forward. Applicants must have completed their PhDs no earlier than June 2019, or be advanced graduate students who are completing their dissertations. Penn State will cover housing and meals, and offer an honorarium to help defray travel costs. For more information and application process, click here ►
