Prof. Raymond Tsang invites the wider community to an event with Dr. Tian Li (Yale University). The Korean Wave, or Hallyu, has been a major cultural trend in China since the 1990s, thriving despite political conflicts and cultural boycotts. Dr. Li's research focuses on how Korean screen culture is adapted in China, using a concept she calls "screen capitalism." This idea looks at how people experience and share media across cultural boundaries even though the Chinese government has banned Korean popular culture as a response to political tensions.
