MCAT Prep Subsidy Increases

For over two decades, our postbaccalaureate premed program has helped prepare pre-health students for medical school by providing them academic preparation, clinical experiences, research opportunities and assistance with their applications. While USC courses provide content coverage for the entire MCAT exam, we also encourage students to enroll in a structured test prep program to maximize their scores by providing each application-year student a MCAT or DAT review course prep subsidy reimbursement. Starting November 2022, that subsidy reimbursement is increasing from $2,000 to $3,000.

2022 Application Cycle News

As of December 2022, our glide year students have received...

Interviews from: USC, UNLV, Case Western, Emory, Temple, Ohio State, Rosalind Franklin, CSUM, University of Cincinnati, Rush, UMass and more.

Acceptances from: USC, UNLV, Case Western, CSUM, UMass, Des Moines University, and more.
