Good afternoon,

If you've received this message, we've previously sent you your site's login details and information for you to begin building your website on WordPress — the content management system for our redesigned USC Dornsife website.

We're writing to remind you that your website must move to WordPress by Dec. 12, 2023, as we will be deactivating the old Dornsife content management system at that time. Sites that are not migrated will be archived for six months should you require their content after Dec. 12.

View the list of websites that are required to migrate here.

We want to make sure you have everything you need to complete your site and launch it by Dec. 12, 2023. All of our support and resources are included below.

A few more important things to note:

- Sites will not be automatically migrated to WordPress
- If you need assistance, our team is here to help
- Ready to launch your WordPress site? Let us know here.

If you have any questions about your site, or need help moving your website to WordPress, please email us at webproject@dornsife.usc.edu.

Thank you,

Michelle Boston
Associate Dean for Digital Content Strategy
Office of Creative Content
