

Amber D. Miller

Amber D. Miller is the 22nd dean of the USC Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences. She holds the Anna H. Bing Dean's Chair and a faculty appointment in the Department of Physics and Astronomy.

Dean Miller is guiding an ambitious vision to significantly expand USC Dornsife's scholarly footprint, develop an unmatched educational experience for students, build a robust pipeline for diversity, and transform the way that universities engage with the public.

Before arriving at USC Dornsife in 2016, Miller served as the first Dean of Science at Columbia University. She received her Ph.D. in physics from Princeton University and her B.A. in physics and astronomy from the University of California, Berkeley.